Workshop Topics

Following the successful earlier workshop at Vancouver (2009), this workshop will continue to motivate more people to take care of social computing in education and initiate more novel work in this field.

The broader context of the workshop can be related in some respects to the areas of social network, collaborative filtering, human computation, learning to rank, social news and knowledge sharing, social bookmarking and tagging. Topics of interest include but are not limited to:

- * Theory and modelling of social computing in education
- * Technology and software of social computing in education
- * Social education system design and architectures
- * Benchmark and experiments
- * Mobile learning applications
- * Semantic web standards for e-learning
- * Software for social learning and collaborative learning
- * Life long learning network
- * Quality and reliability of information and resources
- * Privacy, risk and security
- * Virtual space for learning communities
- * Internet supported ubiquitous learning
- * Integration of learning spaces
- * Social computing in education trend analysis
- * Web 2.0 and social computing/media platforms for learning (Media sharing, media manipulation, conversational arenas, online games and virtual worlds, social networking, blogging, social bookmarking, recommender systems, collaborative editing, wikis, blogs, virtual worlds, syndication, etc)

Important Dates

Submission Deadline: May 15, 2010
Author Notification: June 05, 2010
Final Manuscript Due: June 15, 2010

Electronic Submission

Prepare your manuscripts with IEEE conference paper styles not more than 8 pages in PDF file(conference templates).

Submit your paper(s) at the SocialCom-2010 submission site:

<https://www.easychair.org/login.cgi?conf=2010wsce>

Papers also can be submitted via email to: moqian@btfbu.edu.cn.

Each submission should be regarded as an undertaking that, should the paper be accepted, at least one of the authors must attend the conference to present the work in order for the paper to be included in the IEEE Digital Library.

For further inquiries, please contact the Workshop Program Co-chairs:

Dr. Qian Mo Email: moqian@btfbu.edu.cn

Paper Publications

Accepted papers will be published in the conference proceedings by IEEE Computer Society. Selected papers will be recommended for submission to special issues of journals.
